

generationnext

At the MCA supported by the Balnaves Foundation

Generationnext MORE Primavera

Have you ever been to a generationnext event and run out of time to engage with the artwork and experience all that's on offer? generationnext MORE gives you a chance to really get involved with the exhibitions through small, artist led workshops before the event.

generationnext MORE starts at 4:00pm and finishes at 5:30pm on the day of the event – giving you enough time to get ready and meet your friends.

Amanda Marburg, from left to right: Sanctuary (detail) 2005, oil on canvas; Professor (detail) 2005, oil on canvas; Rabbit (detail) 2005, oil on canvas

For generationnext - Primavera there will be a multi media, artist-led workshop that focuses on the work of Primavera 07 artist Amanda Marburg.

In order to arrive at each finished painting, Marburg goes through a very creative process. She selects a film still from a classic black and white movie often a thriller or horror. She recreates the scene it depicts by sculpting it, three dimensionally in black-and-white plasticine. Marburg then lights and photographs the sculpture and finally uses the two-dimensional photograph as the basis for the oil painting she produces.

What results is not a direct painting of a scene but a representation, of a representation, of a representation!

Workshop participants will:

- Have a guided tour of Amanda Marburg's work
- Watch a short section from a classic black and white movie
- Select and sculpt a scene from the movie in plasticine
- Light and photograph the scene
- Recreate the scene on canvas using oil pastels and paints

You will get to keep everything that you make on the day.

Spaces are limited to 15 people and bookings are essential by Thursday 20 September!